

Constructed in 1881 (Ancient Monument site, with Grade II listed buildings) this working, Victorian pumping station, set in landscaped grounds, required an extremely sensitive interpretative treatment. This included the development of a dramatised audio guide soundtrack, and discreet audio visual presentations in the ornate, highly decorative Engine House - a homage to the sanctity of water.

